“ We had built a Frankenstein monster in WordPress. Changing one small item on a page resulted in unintended changes on five other random pages. Our dev team would constantly have to drop what they were doing and fix our website, and managing plugins was a constant worry of ours... We were familiar with HubSpot's landing pages tool in Marketing Hub, and I liked how simple and straightforward the backend is compared to WordPress... The process of migrating over to HubSpot was painless. Our web development agency took some direction from us, and was able to build exactly what we were looking for on the backend. ”
